A vertical photograph showing a dense canopy of green leaves, possibly from a weeping willow tree, hanging downwards. The leaves are long and narrow, creating a textured, flowing appearance against a bright background.

Detailed description: This is a vertical geological map of a mountainous area. The terrain is depicted with green and blue washes representing different landforms. Numerous geological features are highlighted with various patterns: yellow/orange wavy lines, pink rectangular areas, and black dashed lines. Numerous small rectangular boxes with labels are scattered across the map, identifying specific geological units or locations. A prominent yellow/orange wavy line runs vertically down the center-left of the map. Several pink rectangular areas are located along the base of the mountain slopes. Black dashed lines form a network across the upper half of the map, particularly on the right side.

The image is a vertical collage. The top half is a green map of Mount Sanzenin (三峰山) in Japan, showing various peaks and trails. A pink cherry blossom branch with red leaves is superimposed on the map. Several red dots mark specific points along a winding blue path, which is labeled "指導標" (Guiding Pole). One point on the path is marked with a red circle and labeled "110.4m". The bottom half is a photograph of a dense cluster of pink azalea flowers in full bloom, with some bare branches visible in the background.

A map of the 'Shirane Falls' area. A red line, labeled 'Guiding Line' (指導標) at two points, traces a path through a green landscape. The path starts from the bottom left, goes up, then down, then up again towards the center. In the top right corner, there is a photograph of a waterfall cascading over rocks, with the text '[Shirane Falls]' above it.

The image is a collage composed of three distinct vertical panels. The left panel shows a red roller coaster track with several cars moving along it, set against a backdrop of dense green trees. The middle panel depicts a lush green forest with tall trees and a bright sky visible through the canopy. The right panel features a thick red line that starts at the top right and curves downwards towards the bottom left, ending near the center of the frame. The overall composition is a horizontal strip divided into three vertical sections.
